

„The course was interesting and useful because I specialised in Communication sector and I gained new competences in working with children with special needs. I was impressed by the way the children suffering from Autism are involved in lessons and practical activities, and how they were trained to behave when it came about chores (ironing, cleaning their room, cooking, gardening). I was amazed how much they liked what they did. I appreciate the show where the students with special educational needs proved us that, if helped, they can deeply impress us with their work. ”

„The teaching - learning – training course was very useful and well structured, with informational materials suited to our needs to understand the problems we face every day when it comes about some of our students. The information from the courses helped me very much to recognise and understand the mood and behaviour problems at some students, to notice the symptoms in the classroom, to know how to speak to those students and how to behave with them and what is our role in extreme situations. I noticed the students in Jieznas, Lithuania were involved in extracurricular activities and they like to do it and to spend their free time in a pleasant way. ”

„The courses in Jieznas, Lithuania helped me both professionally and personally. I improved my knowledge about the methods and strategies used in teaching children with mood and behaviour problems and also children with special needs. I lived unforgettable and very pleasant moments with the teachers and the students from the partner school, I saw and felt the warm love and friendship in their eyes and souls. Special teachers and students in a special school! ”

(Daniela Petrut – Participant at the fifth teaching – learning – training event in Jieznas, Lithuania)

„The course in Jieznas, Lithuania fulfilled my professional needs because it offered me the possibility to find out information related to the students with behaviour problems. I want to especially underline the quality of the course, the seriousness in approaching the training sessions, the professionalism of the trainers and the excellent communication. The observation of some teachers during the course was a useful experience because I found out some new things related to the students with special needs. ”
